

Treecreepers Forest School is a place girls and boys can come to find woodland adventures. It's a great place to make new friends, have fun, create fantastic woodland art, enjoy exciting activities and play games. It's not really a school, more of an outdoor group where we decide together what new things to try. It's not always easy but you'll feel great when you manage to achieve things together like sawing and climbing and making fire using just a spark. And the harder you try the more you'll get out of it...

At Treecreepers we all look out for each other and keep each other safe.
Meeting once a week we work as a team to set up camp right in the middle of the trees.
The leaders know the woods really well so they'll always be there to help you...

When we go exploring there's plenty to see and do. There's water to cross, mud to wade through and steep banks to climb. There's bugs to search for (we always put them back!), deer tracks to follow and big birds called buzzards to listen out for...

Forest School is a place to feel safe. Safe to try exciting new things, make amazing artworks, learn to use adult tools, and have adventures amongst the trees. We ask you to help think what rules we need to keep everyone smiling and you can suggest ideas for activities too. Sometimes we'll need you to be sensible so we can do all these things and more but there'll be plenty of time for fun and running and climbing and laughing too...

Come and challenge yourself in the woods with your new friends - You'll discover talents you never knew you had!
